

Case Study

data sector

Resonata

www.resonata.co.uk

“We were impressed with their initial approach, sitting down with us to understand our business but moreover with their bright, vibrant and relevant designs for our branding and our site. The quality of work and attention displayed throughout the entire design process was extremely impressive, especially with regards to our final site design and our logo.”

Matthew Baker, Director
Resonata

When start-up Resonata Consulting decided that their website was going to be the public face of their new company, and essentially their calling card to potential clients, they researched many varied web designers before meeting us.

With an experienced team they work within the legal sector to help grow firms within that industry using a variety of techniques such as list acquisition and data cleansing.

The consultancy required a complete package including a new brand, stationary, content management system and tie-in to features such as Twitter and blogs.

“Their ability to create a professional and uniquely beautiful website from our ideas and inspirations was brilliant! We feel extremely fortunate to have found Byte Art, and confident that our website will give us a distinct advantage over our competitors. Resonata Consulting look forward to maintaining a positive and productive relationship in the future with Byte Art as our company continues to grow and evolve.”

Matthew Baker, Director
Resonata

technologies

ASP, Flash, SQL Server, Javascript, CSS, HTML

services

Branding, Website, Content Management System

